SENATE BEGINS FINAL WORK ON NEW DRAFT BILL

Washington, Aug. 26.—With a big fight on the "work or fight" amendment, the senate today began its final work on the man-power bill.

The measure as passed late Saturday by the house and giving the war department exactly what it wanted, is expected to emerge from the senate in much the same form. It is possible, however, the work or fight provision, beaten in the house may be voted in by the senate.

All other important amendments, such as placing the 18 year old youth in a separate class, will likely be defeated in the senate as in the house.

Passage of the bill in the upper branch may come late today. Certainly it is not likely to be deferred longer than tomorrow.

The senate military committee met today to substitute the house bill for the senate measure, and the work or fight and other less important amendments.

DR. ACHESON HAS WONDERFUL STORY TO TELL XENIANS

The patriotic meeting which is arranged for Tuesday night at the First Methodist Episcopal church, when Dr. John C. Acheson, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women at Pittsburgh, will give the address, is expected to be the largest gathering that has been held here since the opening of the war.

Dr. Acheson, a former Xenian, was a member of the Commission of five which visited France as a representative of the War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, and he has a thrilling and wonderful story to tell of his observations on the western front, and throughout France. It is a splendid opportunity for Xenia people to hear Dr. Acheson, who is on a speaking tour in the interest of the War Work Council, and the Bureau of Public Information.

His address will open at 8 o'clock. Edward Hart, who has just concluded a tour on a Chautauqua Circuit, will play several organ selections, beginning at 7:30. Admission to the meeting is free.

Dr. Acheson is giving a second address at Memorial Hall, Springfield, Monday night.

Seven persons were injured, none seriously. Scores were in danger from falling bricks and panic, when the four story walls of the Klein and Heffelman store fell.

devastated Chateau-Thierry rushing through the littered streets to greet the American troops which drove the Germans fleeing from the village. The Hun guns had tered down the homes of the villagers and then the German soldiers forced the women and children to do their bidding. The U. S. soldiers were hailed as liberators.

COAL SHIPMENTS TO GREAT LAKES IS TO BE INCREASED

Cleveland, O., Aug. 26.—Coal shipments up the lakes are to be increased while navigation remains open, more careful distribution of coal is to be planned.

Better co-operation between mine operators and the fuel administration is to be sought.

These three policies were agreed upon today following a meeting of operators and representatives of the fuel administration here late yesterday.

"Lake shipments, said A. W. Calloway, federal director of bituminous distribution, "are now 1,250,000 tons behind schedule."

"At the present rate of shipping, the shortage by October will be 2,500,000 tons. The northwest must have coal and unless it is shipped by water, the effect on the coal supply this winter will be serious."

"Some manufacturing plants in this district," he continued, "have a sufficient reserve supply of coal to last them until January or February. Shipments to these firms must be stopped."

"Within a week a new priority schedule will be complete. It will contain names of 6,500 concerns in the United States and Canada. Concerns doing nothing but government work will be class 1 plants, entitled to all the coal they want."

"What coal is left will be divided among the plants working partially on government work. Non essential factories will have to take what coal they can get this winter."

RIDES IN RED CROSS LORRIES MAKE FRENCH TOTS HAPPY

Paris children in American Red Cross lorries.

The kindness of all the Americans in war torn France has won the hearts of the French children. This photo, taken in Paris, shows a group of laughing French children on board an American Red Cross lorry for a ride through the city and out into the country in a direction where there is little danger from Hun airmen. An American soldier and a Red Cross nurse are on the motor bus with them to take care of the tots who are going on the trip. The children enjoy the rides hugely.

GERMANS HARD PRESSED BY THE ALLIED ARMIES

Paris, Aug. 26.—(12:16 p. m.)—Artillery fighting last night between the Ailette and the Aisne rivers and in the Roye and Beuvraignes regions was reported by the French war office today.

"In the Roye and Beuvraignes regions, and between the Ailette and the Aisne, there was sharp artillery fighting last night," the communique said.

"In the Vosges, two German raids were unsuccessful. We took some prisoners there."

Paris, Aug. 26.—(10 a. m.)—While the French artillery is smashing up the new German defensive positions preparatory to a crossing of the Oise, east of Noyon, Gen. Mangin is pushing on methodically toward Coucy-le-Chateau in the face of fierce resistance.

The Germans have fortified the north bank of the Oise from Noyon at Chauny. At some points the enemy is counter-attacking.

London, Aug. 26.—The British extended their drive farther northward into the Arras sector, by suddenly attacking along the Scarpe river at three o'clock this morning, Field Marshal Haig reported "good progress."

(The Scarpe flows through the northern outskirts of Arras.)

Capture of Fravreuil (two miles north and east of Bapaume) was announced.

The British line has been advanced further on both sides of the Somme and additional progress has been made toward Maricourt (four miles southwest of Combles.)

By Fred S. Ferguson, United Press Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, Aug. 25.—(Night)—American troops advanced their line 500 meters (a third of a mile) on a front of two kilometers (a mile and a quarter) immediately east of Fismes today, driving the Germans from the railroad and capturing what had been an advantageous position. As this is a cabled, sharp infantry fighting is keeping the whole Vesle front stirred up, but the Boche counter attacks are less.

The Americans in the last few days have begun a systematic clean-up of objectionable positions. The tannery was first taken. Then an attack on a more pretentious scale was launched this morning.

The Boche had dug in along the railroad skirting the south bank of the Vesle and had established numerous machine nests. The Americans were in a dip south of the main Soissons-Rheims highway. They had to advance across open country toward the railway.

A stiff barrage was put down on the railway at five a. m., the infantry starting their advance simultaneously. Quickly they topped the railway and charged across the open space in the face of a terrific machine gun fire. The attack was so impetuous it sent the Boche a running. A heavy enemy barrage was put down on the railway, but the Americans held on.

Only seven prisoners were taken. One of them, a banker and restaurant keeper of the high class was forced to serve. He had been in the army a year. He said that all able bodied men are now compelled to work in war factories or go to the front. He said that soldiers everywhere now realize their efforts are merely a sacrifice.

One deserter who entered the line revealed the straits to which the German high command had been reduced regarding man power. The deserter had been previously wounded and was taken from the hospital and returned to the front before he was fully recovered.

The Americans now hold the railway on both sides of Fismes. The Boche are extremely nervous and are constantly sending up rockets at night.

American patrols are maintaining constant contact with the German lines, harassing the enemy positions day and night.

ARRIVAL OF FIRST AMERICAN-BUILT PLANES AT BATTLEFRONT CHEERS AMERICAN ARMY OVER THERE; FLIERS ARE READY FOR PLANES

Major Foullois, leader of America's airmen, and his "flying circus" of American boys somewhere France.

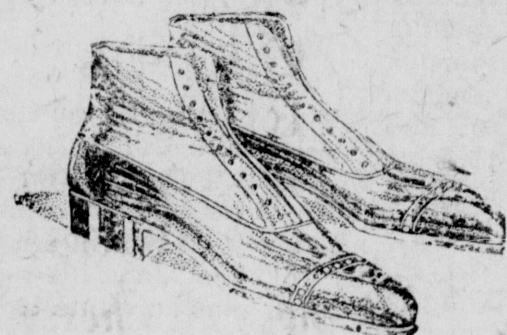

Dispatches from the front say that the arrival of the first consignment of American-built airplanes caused great elation among the American soldiers. It probably had a reverse action on the Germans who heard about it. For the American fliers have been doing deadly execution with the planes built in Europe. Major Foullois, leader of the U. S. airmen, and his men have been bombing ammunition dumps and rail road stations. He recently led a raid over German border towns, not losing a single one of his squad.

AUTO PRODUCTION WILL BE REDUCED FIFTY PER CENT

Washington, Aug. 26—Manufacture of passenger automobiles and repair parts have agreed with the war industries board to limit production during the last six months of 1918 to 25 per cent of the total production in 1917, according to announcement tonight in the form of a letter from the war industries board to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. To permit this production the board gave notice that it will extend preferential treatment for the obtaining of materials necessary "to match up" the stock on hand.

Plants having an excess supply of steel on hand after completing the permitted construction, according to the terms of the agreement, will be required to turn over the supply to other plants. The agreement means the cutting of automobile production during the last half of the present year at least 50 per cent.

THEATERS

BIJOU.

Elaine Hammerstein, grand daughter of the immortal Oscar, heads a brilliant cast, which under the direction of Ralph Ince, has produced the Jewel picture, "The Cc Respondent," which comes to the Bijou Tuesday.

The picture is a screen version of the famous drama of the same name by Alice Leal Pollock and Reita Weiman.

Wilfred Lucas, famous dramatic star, has the role opposite Miss Hammerstein and a well balanced cast is included in the rest. The scene of the story is laid in a newspaper office, and is rapid of action and plot.

ORPHIUM.

That much talked of motion picture, "Loaded Dice," will be the attraction at the Orphium Theater, Tuesday night only, when Frank Keenan, popular star in the "Heavies," appears in the leading role of that piece.

The story is a drama of remarkable punch and is timely of subject, as it deals with food profiteering, politics and big business. The picture calls for intense dramatic power, which draws the best out of Mr. Keenan, and it finishes with an intensely dramatic climax.

Florence Billings plays opposite Mr. Keenan and Guy Coombs, Madeline Marshall and others are in the cast.

There were about 500 persons in attendance at the convention which was the twenty-fifth annual meeting and the silver anniversary was also celebrated. The Xenia people who attended the convention were: Mrs. Faulkner, national representative; Mrs. Mora Harner, representing Pride of Xenia council, and Mrs. Myrtle Coulter, and Mrs. Theresa Karch, representing Obedient Council.

HENRY GROTTENDICK DIES SUDDENLY ON SATURDAY EVENING

Henry Grottendick, who for more than forty years was proprietor of a baking business on East Main street, and widely and favorably known, died at his home on West Second street, at 6 o'clock, Saturday night.

A sufferer from cancer of oesophagus, Mr. Grottendick was an invalid for several months, though not confined entirely to his bed. Saturday afternoon he complained of feeling very ill and went to his bedroom to lie down. He passed into a coma from which he never aroused.

Mr. Grottendick was born in Oldendorf, Germany, January 29, 1852, and was in the sixty-seventh year of his age when he died. He was a merrymad, when in 1866, he came to the United States with members of his family, and settled in Cincinnati. He grew up in that city and learned his trade as a baker there. More than 40 years ago, he came to Xenia and bought the bakery business owned by Henry Grauer. He continued in business there until five years ago, when he retired, selling the business to Charles Snider, the present owner.

He married Miss Judith Binder of this city, May 23, 1872, and she survives him, with four children: William Grottendick, who is traveling in the interests of the Consolidated Padlock Company, and is now in Canada, on his way to the Pacific coast; Mrs. John Osterly, of Colusa, Cal.; George of this city and Miss Elsie, at home. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Fred Ehrlich, and Mrs. Fred Werges, of Ludlow, Ky. He was a member of the Red Men, and the I. O. O. F. lodge.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday at 2 p. m. Friends may call after 7 o'clock, Monday evening.

Watch Your Knees.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIERS

Letters for this column from Greene county's soldiers are solicited. No matter whether the letter is from a soldier in the training camp or from the battle trenches it is of interest, not only to his close friends but to the general public. Therefore if you receive a letter from a soldier and it contains interesting news pass it along to the newspaper and we will publish it so all his friends may enjoy it. Soldiers are also invited to write directly to the newspaper.

An interesting letter from Earl Short has just been received by a friend here. Mr. Short is in a motor truck company in France.

His letter follows:

"I received your very welcome letter today along with two from home, so I can consider myself fortunate. I really haven't much to say, as nothing of interest has happened in the last month to me, the regular routine being much in vogue at present.

"For the last two or three months I have spent a good bit of my time on the road hauling supplies to the front and other places, so I haven't had much time to write. For instance, in the last month I've received 25 or 30 letters and have only written eight or ten. I can't answer them all and people oughtn't to expect it, but I like to get them just the same. As nearly as I can estimate, I have received about 130 letters in the seven months I have been over here, so you see I have been lucky.

"I like truck driving pretty well, especially the trips when we get to see the towns and country. That has one or two objections, hardly worth considering, though. In dry weather the dust is pretty bad when traveling in train formation, and our sleep and eats do not come as regularly as I would like them. Many times we have to drive all night and the next day, about 20 hours or more straight, then grab four or five hours' sleep, and go again. I wonder we don't have some accidents, as I have been so sleepy driving at night that I had to yell and sing (?) and do everything possible to keep awake, and there is only a dim realization that I am back of a truck steering wheel, going along about 18 miles per hour. Have never run off the road yet, though.

"Some of our company got to see some real excitement not long ago, but with my usual luck, I missed it. My oil system went on the 'fritz,' so I had to go to the shop for a day, and that very night a bunch left for detached service at the front, but as my truck was out of running order I had to stay there. I got a four-day trip up towards Paris, while they were gone, though. The boys that went up got right back of our troops at Chateau-Thierry and saw some wonderful things (according to their stories, some of which I take with a grain of salt). Anyway, they brought back German guns and helmets, and other souvenirs, which they had to turn in to the salvage department. They were in a slight gas attack, also, and slept with the big guns shooting over their heads on night. I would have given anything I have to have been on that trip.

"I was about 12 kilometers (about 8 miles) from Chateau-Thierry early this summer, when the 'square heads' occupied it, but I didn't see much of warfare, except at night, when the sky is all lit up from the big 'fireworks.' There was lots of noise, though.

"I sure am tired of army life, even though it is interesting, but I would like to be somewhere where I could go when and where I pleased and stay up after 9:30. I can't see any possible finish to this war before next spring, unless Japan intervenes, and I have set the date of my home-coming in the fall of 1919. I wouldn't quit now if I had the chance, nor would I out of 10 Americans over here, and I am only sorry I wasn't in it sooner.

"Lowery is just as fat as ever and we are both in splendid health. I think he received a letter from you a couple of days ago. Well I think that is about enough (for a couple of months, maybe) so I will close.

"EARL SHORT."

His address is "Motor Truck Co., No. 2, A. P. O. 712, A. E. F., France, via, New York."

Mr. John F. Peterson and sisters, Misses Emma and Clara Peterson, Mr. John W. Marsh and sister, Miss Laura Marsh, all of near Muncie, Ind., spent several days last week visiting Miss Lida Maxey of West Second street. The party motored through in Mr. Peterson's car. They visited while here the Soldiers' Home at Dayton, the aviation field at Fairfield, Yellow Springs, Clifton, O. S. & S. O. Home, and other places of interest. Mr. Marsh and sister are cousins of Miss Maxey.

'THE WIFE'

BY JANE PHELPS

RUTH TAKES POSITION WITH FIFTH AVENUE DECORATING FIRM.

CHAPTER XIX.

Ruth dressed with unusual care, even for her. She wore one of her trousseau dresses, a quiet, but elegant street dress. When she emerged from the little hallway leading to her flat, she was flawless from the tip of her patent leather shoes to the top of her close-fitting toque, which covered but could not hide her glossy hair.

She went to one of the large Fifth Avenue shops—a very exclusive one by the way. They received her courteously, as would any man. Women of her type, clothed as she was that morning, are not often found seeking work.

But to her sorrow they had no place for her. They had experts in all departments, and trained assistants. If she would leave her address they would bear her in mind.

Ruth had no intention of giving her address. She herself realized that, considering the way she dressed, it was incongruous. So she simply told them she would perhaps call again if she found nothing soon. They urged her to do so, and with a sinking feeling she departed.

"I mustn't be discouraged because they wouldn't try me at the very first place," she scolded herself, as she walked down the street.

Her experience at the next place, a larger establishment, was almost identical.

"They are letting me down easy," she mumbled, using an expression of Brian's, and smiling grimly.

At the next shop they were willing to try her; but the salary offered was so small, she continued on her way. If she could do better she would not take it; if not, she might try—so she told the bewhiskered man who had talked to her.

"It may be filled. Better take it while you can get it," he said with an ingratiating smile. But Ruth shook her head.

The next place on her list was a small but select shop which she had often admired as she passed, because of the exquisite taste shown in arranging the window, as well as because of the unusual and beautiful materials shown.

"I wish I could get in here!" she said to herself, as she waited while the clerk called someone in authority.

After talking a moment, the proprietor, a man of attractive appearance, about thirty years old, asked her to step into his private office with him. He was interested in what Ruth had told him of herself; about her love for the work which had fascinated her since childhood. Her clothes proved her taste, and she herself intrigued him to know her further.

"Now tell me WHY you want work," he said, after the door had closed them in. "Your clothes do not indicate the necessity."

"I know," said Ruth with a smile, trying to think how best to answer the question which, while emphasized, had been put in a kindly way. "My trousseau is still new and fresh. I have been married but a few months. My aunt, with whom I lived up to the time of my marriage, is a very wealthy woman, and she bought my trousseau."

"I take it, then, that your husband is not wealthy."

"No, he is a young lawyer," as if that explained their poverty.

"I see. And while he is waiting for clients, you want to help keep the pot boiling?"

"Yes, partly that!" Ruth hesitated, then confessed: "But I hate housework. We cannot afford to hire a maid, so I decided to try and do something more congenial, and then have a woman do the work at home."

"A wise decision," Arthur Mandel remarked, thinking that the dainty creature before him was surely out of place in a kitchen.

Ruth waited. There was no more to tell. Was he simply curious about her, or was he intending to give her work? Finally he said:

"I will give you twenty dollars a week at first. If you prove as able as I imagine you will, you will be worth more. My head woman was married two weeks ago. I have not yet filled her place. In fact, I had no hope of being able to, for some time. She had been with us twelve years, and, besides knowing her part of the business, could attend to much that did not come directly in her department."

"She must have been very valuable," Ruth said ineluctably, thinking she would try awfully hard to fill that other woman's place; and wondering what they paid her.

"When can you come?" Mr. Mandel asked.

"At once. Tomorrow morning if you want me to," Ruth replied, her thoughts on Brian, and what he would say to her high-handed way of doing things.

"Very well. Nine o'clock, or even half past will do. Our hours are not long. But we keep very busy during the time we remain open," so letting Ruth see he expected her to be "on the job," as Brian would say.

Ruth bade him good morning. He politely opened the door for her. Perhaps it was just as well that she did not know his eyes followed her with admiration until she gained the street.

Tomorrow—Ruth tells Brian that She Has Accepted a Position. He Objects.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S OPINION OF MR. FORD'S OPINIONS.

Did you ever think of it, of how opinion rules the world. The world is governed much more by opinion than by laws, it is not the judgment of courts, but the judgment of individuals which is the main influence in life. There are wise people who grasp public opinion discreetly and boldly and use it to influence others to the advantage of the world. It is with true opinion, which some one has the courage to utter, as with pawns first advanced on the chess-board, they have inaugurated a game which must be won.

Such are the opinions of our great man, Ex-President Roosevelt. When he speaks the world listens, for the reason that his words are generally those of wisdom. And the more especially, what he says regarding public affairs since the world war began. And as to his patriotism, no living man can doubt it. He has given the undoubted evidence that is beyond dispute.

Mr. Roosevelt never minces words. He has his opinions and has the conviction of his conscience to utter them, let the consequences be what they may. Just now he has given to the world his opinion of the opinions of Mr. Henry Ford, the great Detroit automobile manufacturer. He gives his authority for his quotations, so that there may be no misunderstanding as to their truth.

Mr. Ford is supposed to be a Republican, but has been nominated by the Democrats of Michigan for the United States Senate and has accepted the nomination. Mr. Ford said: "I don't believe in the flag. When the war is over these flags shall come down never to go up again." The seditious act inflicts a punishment of twenty years in the penitentiary for any man who, while we are at war "utters language intended to bring the flag of the United States into contempt or disrepute." Mr. Roosevelt says no patriotic American can afford to put in the U. S. Senate, perhaps to help negotiate the peace treaty, a man with such sentiments.

Mr. Ford said he "does not believe in patriotism, and that he does not care any more for the United States than for China or Hindoostan." Mr. Roosevelt says if these words of Mr. Ford mean anything then Mr. Ford is unpatriotic, and has no more right to sit in the United States Senate than a Hindu or a Chinaman.

Mr. Ford has been given immensely valuable war contracts of the government, and yet has done frightful damage to that government by the lavish use he made of his enormous wealth in gigantic anti-American propaganda against preparedness. This includes his ridiculous "peace ship," to Europe, which so far as it had any effect encouraged Germany to believe that we were as neutral between Right and Wrong as Pontius. This crusade included an extraordinary series of advertisements, issued long after the Lusitana was sunk, in which Mr. Ford denounced preparedness and assailed those who advocated it.

Mr. Roosevelt's last fling at Mr. Ford is in regard to his son who is of draft age, yet applied for exemption. The local board refused his application. Then he applied to the President. The President was slow to act; then the revised draft regulations excused him as a married man with a child, and he has exercised his legal right—while thousands of poor young men have declined to take advantage of this legal right. They have left their wives and babes to go to war for love of country, for love of liberty and for love of civilization. But Mr. Ford's son stays at home, surrounded by all the comforts of safety.

In conclusion Mr. Roosevelt says: "In private relations I understand that Mr. Ford is an amiable man. But I am not dealing with him in his private relations. I am discussing him as a candidate for high office. We are bound truthfully to set forth what we believe will be the effect of his election, and therefore we are bound to say that it would be damaging to the United States and would be encouraging to Germany. No patriotic American should support Mr. Ford."

LET CONGRESS BE PATRIOTIC.

The United States Senator or Congressman who refuses to vote for war prohibition on the ground that liquor is a source of revenue to the government, and that the government can not afford to prohibit it, shows himself the terrified or conscienceless tool of the liquor traffic. If he has enough sense to hold his office he knows that this claim is a vicious fallacy, and that it is propounded simply to deceive the gullible and to enable the liquor traffic to bleed the nation. If liquor pays half a billion of dollars tax it will be because the people have wasted five billions of dollars in lowering their efficiency, and in enriching the food-destroying, fuel-wasting, Hun-allied brewers and distillers. None but those who are overawed or bought over by the liquor profiteers would call it sound financing for the government to permit dollars to be stolen in order that dimes may be paid back as taxes. Let Congress show the patriotism and good sense that it asks from the people.

O. S. AND S. O. HOME

Two locust trees growing at the south-east end of the school buildings were felled the first of the week, the having become decayed and a source of threatening danger to traffic. The trees will be made into fence posts.

Mr. Ball our new school janitor, who has had a force of boys cleaning the school buildings for the past two weeks, preparatory to the opening of the school term, beginning Sept. 3, reports the job will be finished by the first part of next week.

J. G. Mitchell, of the carpenter department was reported on the sick list.

Edward Berryhill of the Farm department, is off duty on account of sickness.

The roads through the Home grounds becoming so dry and dusty necessitated a couple of coats of oil the past few days.

SEEKS SURRENDER OF PROPERTY

In the case of Harry D. Smith et al. vs. George F. Ormsby et al., Ormsby Friday filed a motion in United States court or an order, requiring Richard Hurst, R. F. D., No. 4, Xenia, Ohio, to surrender any deed he may have to the homestead situated at 327 East Church street, Xenia. Ormsby says Hurst has notified him he was purchaser of the property at a sheriff's sale and has requested him to remove his effects. He contends the matter of the ownership of the property is pending in this court and any sale by another court is null and void.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FOOD NOTES

Supplied by Greene County
Food Commission

SUGAR FOR CANNING.

Six million pounds of sugar were issued last week through County Food Administration Committees, to Ohio households for canning purposes.

To do this it was necessary to draw upon the future allotment of sugar for this state but this step was decided upon by the Food Administration in view of reports from all over the State, particularly from the rural communities, that fruit is going to waste because of lack of sugar for canning.

"It would be most unfortunate if any fruit were allowed to go to waste in Ohio, this year because of lack of sugar," says Food Administrator Croxon.

"Sugar is very scarce and we have no assurance that it will not continue to be scarce until the first of the year, but we would rather take a chance of getting our honor ration of two pounds per person per month for ordinary use during the last two months of the year than permit any food to go to waste now, because of lack of sugar.

A most earnest appeal is made to patriotic housewives to use as little sugar as possible on the table. Use only enough sugar in canning to preserve the food; to preserve a part of the supply of fruits by methods requiring no sugar and to replace some of the sugar, ordinarily used, with other sweeteners.

The certificates for this extra allotment for home canning were in ten pound denominations. They were sent to the County Food Committee to be distributed by them either directly to consumers or to the retailers at the option of the County Committee.

XENIA HORSES ARE MONEY WINNERS

A number of Xenia owned and driven horses have been in the money on different circuits during the past week.

Frances D, the mare owned by Bert Blair, and one of the fastest horses owned locally, put Xenia on the map when she stepped in first money in the 2:20 pace at the Toledo race meeting with Joe Hagler up. The best time was 2:13 1-2 and the purse was $500.

Little Helen, the fast little trotting mare owned by Joseph Watson of Spring Valley, with Joe Hagler up, won third money in the 2:18 trot, stepping the mile in 2:12 1-4. The purse was $500. Grover Brickle, another Greene county owner and driver drove his side-wheeler, Frank Little into fourth money in the 2:30 pace at London fair this week.

All of these horses will start in the races at the Ohio State Fair next week and Frances D, the Blair owned mare, is entered in the 2:30 pace, which is the $1,000 stake on the racing program.

CAPLINGER IS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

A. H. Caplinger, former Western Southern Life Insurance Company agent, charged with grand larceny in the theft of nearly $500 from the company safe last week, waived preliminary examination when he appeared before Police Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning.

He was bound over to the Grand Jury and his bond was fixed at $700. Belva Soward, arrested with Caplinger and L. E. Miller, of Dayton, who was named in the warrant, were both released when the evidence showed that they had no hand in the affair.

Miller is a government inspector at the Dayton Wright Airplane factory at Moraine City. While he was named in the warrant he was not arrested at the time Caplinger and the women were taken in custody, but he came to this city and told his story when requested to appear. His testimony and that of Belva Soward convinced the authorities that they knew nothing of the theft of the money and both were released.

Sunrise in Town and Country.
Sunrise, on the mountains or at sea, or in the rural districts, is an event worthy of attention and well rewards the early riser with its beauty and significance—but the early riser in the town or city has usually found everything untidy and must step over ash cans and dodge the sweepers and be satisfied with the sleepy grunts of workmen who are getting things into shape for the business of the day. It is anything but picturesque and most unattractive.

ADVERTISING--

A Directory of Life's Sustenance

Number
SEVEN

A series of fifty-two articles written by experts on advertising for your benefit. They will appear in The Morning Republican and The Evening Gazette. Read them and learn how advertising helps you.

There is an old rhyme which reads—

"The man who has some goods to sell
And breathes his message down a well
Will never reap as many dollars
As he who climbs a tree and hollers."

to which I should like to add another verse—
The man who thinks that he's too wise
To trade with folks that advertise.

Should when he go to town and buys.
Just open his purse and shut his eyes.

There are a few people left who still jolly themselves along with the idea that they can't be fooled by advertising. They lead lives of independence, buy on merit and pay no attention to the advertising columns of the magazines and newspapers. But most of them are using every day a hundred things that they would never have heard of but for the publicity that has been given them by their makers.

Some of them own an automobile and the automobile which is on a fair analysis a least 95 per cent luxury and 5 per cent necessity, has been converted by advertising and nothing but advertising into 95 per cent necessity and 5 per cent luxury. Of course the advertising of the automobile is not just the newspaper and magazine pages devoted to it. The automobile itself is one of the biggest advertisements of its advantages. Every one seen on the street or in a neighbor's garage is a constant and irresistible appeal to the man who has none to go and possess himself of one even if he has to mortgage his home for the price. The talking machine was little more than an interesting scientific toy until a few men had the vision and the courage to spend money to convert it into a household necessity.

And so on throughout the experience of us all we are daily and hourly making use of soaps, tooth powders, clothing, baking powders, breakfast foods, farming implements and scores of other things whose merits would have been unknown to us but for the enterprise of the makers in calling them to our attention.

The suggestion that I write these few words about advertising came to me on the eve of an outing in the northern wilderness, where wildness and other charms were held up to me in the railroad folders and in the glowing descriptions of friends. Now that I am here and find the picture was not overdrawn, that there are fish in abundance whose size is only comparable to their hunger, I am more than happy that I was persuaded by advertising to come and spend a few weeks among the balsams and pines where there are besides fish, real bear, deer and other wild creatures that I should never have a chance to meet face to face on the asphalt street of my home city.

Money spent in advertising is like the time a carpenter spends in keeping a keen edge on his tools. An hour a day on his saws, planes and chisels with file and oil stone will enable the carpenter to do three times the work, he could otherwise do with dull implements. The advertiser who has merchandise or service to sell, can by the expenditure of a comparatively small sum, do three, ten or a hundred times the business he could do without this advertising. The increased volume of business results in lowering all other costs of doing business—rent, clerk hire, so he can sell a better article for a lower price than would otherwise be possible.

But it must be remembered that advertising cannot force a profitable volume of sales for an inferior or defective article. No matter how attractively it may be pictured on paper, the money so spent is worse than wasted. For, the minute the buyer obtains it and discovers its worthlessness, he becomes a negative force that counteracts the effects of the seller thereafter. This fact is so well understood among business men that few of them are foolish enough to throw money away in an effort to sell goods that are not as good as they are represented to be. In other words, advertising is a serious business. It is just the same as endorsing a note. A note must be a good one before the wise business man puts his name on it and becomes responsible for it.

If an article is widely and generally advertised that in itself is a proof that that particular merchandise is all right—that the public is buying it and is pleased with it and that you will doubtless be equally satisfied with it.

When you ask your dealer for an article you have seen advertised and he recommends that you try something else, explaining to you that it can be sold cheaper because there has been no money wasted in advertising it, you are warranted in suspecting that he wants to sell you the unknown article because he makes more profit on it. And that extra profit he makes is usually much more than the amount spent in advertising the other.

When one stops to consider that the greatest business men and keenest minds of the age are using advertising in a large way and spending in the aggregate, vast sums of money through this channel, one may be sure that there is no other known means of promoting business equal to this. If there were, these men would use it and if you would take these facts into consideration in making your own purchases and buy only those things, which are presented to you with such care in the columns of your paper and magazines, you will soon discover that you get more quantity and quality for your money than you can possibly get through experimenting with unknown, untried "orphan" brands whom no one has sufficient confidence in to father and stand sponsor for.

But it must be remembered that advertising cannot force a profitable volume of sales for an inferior or defective article. No matter how attractively it may be pictured on paper, the money so spent is worse than wasted. For, the minute the buyer obtains it and discovers its worthlessness, he becomes a negative force that counteracts the

Mrs. Page Tells How Vinol Restored Her Strength and Stopped a Cough.

Vinol owes its success in such cases to beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body building and strength creating tonics known. adv

Catarrh is a Real Enemy and Requires Vigorous Treatment

Do Not Neglect It.

When you use medicated sprays, atomizers and douches for your Catarrh, you may succeed in unstopping the choked-up air passages for the time being, but this annoying condition returns, and you have to do the same thing over and over again. Catarrh has never yet been cured by these local applications. Have you ever experienced any real benefit from such treatment?

Throw these makeshift remedies to the winds, and get on the right treatment. Go to your drug store to get a bottle of S. S. S., and commence a treatment that has been praised by sufferers for nearly half a century. S. S. S. gets right at the source of Catarrh, and forces from the blood the germs which cause the disease. You can obtain special medical advice regarding your own case without charge by writing to Medical Director, 22 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, G.

MRS. KIMMELSHUE KILLED WITH SONS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

That Mrs. E. F. Kimmelschue was also killed in the accident in which her two sons, Stinson and Robert, lost their lives, is the information contained in later dispatches and disclosed in Saturday's issue of a Monmouth, Illinois, paper, received by Rev. R. W. Burnside, who is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dean, from his mother in Monmouth.

According to the article, four lives were claimed in the accident, in which the Ford touring car owned by Rev. Kimmelschue plunged over a 50 foot embankment on Fall river in Estes Park, Colorado. A Mrs. W. H. Woods of Monmouth was the fourth victim of the terrible accident.

Rev. and Mrs. Kimmelschue and family are former Xenians, living here when Rev. Kimmelschue was synodical superintendent of missions. They moved to Monmouth two or three years ago, where Rev. Kimmelschue was pastor of the Ninth Avenue Presbyterian church. Mrs. Kimmelschue was formerly Miss Stinson of this city. The oldest son, Stinson, was 18 and a graduate of the High School at Monmouth, and preparing to enter Monmouth College this fall. His brother, Robert, was 10, and attended Central School.

It is said that the accident was caused when the machine struck a boulder and swerved on the narrow path, plunging over the precipice.

Rev. Kimmelschue had gone by train to Ft. Collins, where he was substituting for a brother minister, and thus was not in the accident.

Friends of Rev. Kimmelschue here were greatly shocked to hear of the accident and extend their sympathies to him in his triple bereavement.

Having the figures of the men needed by employers and the figures of the men wanting jobs, the Government agency then makes the distribution of workmen according to the known needs.

Ohio's Employment Service is now being enlarged to meet the increased demands.

Good men are needed in several communities of the State to help carry on the work. Application should be made to C. H. Mayhugh, Associate Federal Director of Employment for Ohio, No. 74 East Gay St., Columbus, Ohio.

These British soldiers evidently intend to ride in comfort when they start their triumphant trip to Berlin. Of course the cab, found in a ruined village, may need a little repairing. Hun bullets wrecked it. The picture shows how German shell fire devastated towns along the western front.

DISPLAY LIGHTS MUST BE CUT OFF TO CONSERVE FUEL

The Greene County Fuel Committee has just received a copy of a general order of the United States Fuel Administrator directing that all lights in display windows and display signs shall be shut off on Monday and Tuesday evenings of each week until further notice. The local committee is charged with the responsibility of enforcing the order in Greene county towns.

The order is issued for the purpose of conserving fuel and it is estimated that this provision will save thousands of tons of coal.

Judge Smith, chairman of the local committee, states that he understands the order to mean that on Monday and Tuesday nights no light may be used in display windows and all advertising signs must be dark. Lights inside the stores, necessary to carry on business, will of course be permitted.

NEW TRUCK GETS BAPTISM OF FIRE

Xenia's new fire truck was given its baptism of fire Sunday morning, when the motor appliance answered the first alarm since the truck has been fitted and ready for action. A spark from a flue set fire to the roof of a house occupied by a family named Parret and owned by Miss Rilda Phelps on East Market street. The fire burned a small hole in the roof when it was extinguished by use of the chemicals and water. The loss was slight.

NEW LIEUTENANTS RETURN TO CAMP

Lieutenants Harold Whittington, of this city, and Raymond Malone, of Spring Valley, recommended for commissions to Camp Sherman a week ago at the conclusion of the Fourth Officers' Training School, left for the camp Monday morning to receive their commissions. The men were outfitted while here but were not permitted to wear their newly earned Lieutenant's bars or hat cord before receiving their official commissions. Lieutenant Whittington will probably be assigned to a depot training division at Camp Sherman while Lieut. Malone will probably be assigned to Camp Lee, Va.

Everyday Etiquette

"Should a man ever smoke in the presence of women?" asked Joe. "Men who have good manners do not smoke in the presence of women without their express permission," answered his mother.

IT'S NOT WHAT YOU EAT THAT DOES YOU GOOD.

High Cost of Living Solved By Using Pepsinco, a Systematic Method of Digestion.

Thousands of tons of food are wasted thru improper digestion of food. Many persons are using a new system of food digestion, not only because our government's food expert says that we shall conserve the food, but, also, the high price of food stuffs compels retrenchment. They find that a little food well digested will go farther and do more good than a large quantity poorly digested.

Pepsinco, this systematic method of digestion, is inexpensive and can always be relied upon. The dose is small and powerful. One little tablet will digest an ordinary meal. Everything will be assimilated. The meal will give you strength. No food will be wasted, once you start this treatment.

Stop at the drug store today and get a small package of Pepsinco.

PLANT AT WALKER'S COAL YARD

Saving Coal Saves Money

And Helps The Nation

There's a wealth of proof to show that your home may be thoroughly comfortable at a third or a half less fuel than you have been using. The Caloric Pipeless Furnace is a remarkable fuel conserver. Many say it saves half. Here is just one sample letter taken at random out of thousands which the manufacturers receive from pleased Caloric owners:

"I am heating very comfortably seven rooms and not using any more fuel than I did with a double heater, heating only two rooms.—S. P. SEIFERT."

The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

Over fifty thousand homes, many of them in this state, have found this furnace the economical, common-sense method of keeping comfortable. They bought on a guarantee of real fuel saving and perfect satisfaction, and the Caloric made good.

One register delivers all the heat from the fuel directly into your living rooms and draws out the cold air, insuring an abundance of balmy, moist warmth right where you want it. The cellar is just right for the storage of perishable products.

The Caloric can be installed in a day. It is a triumph of engineering skill that embodies many patented features which have made it the leader and which are not found in imitations. Come in and see this wonderful furnace. We will tell you frankly whether it is adapted to your home. If we say it is, we will give you our personal guarantee that it will make good or we will take it out. Come in and talk it over.
